In the November 2011 issue, Global Finance will present a Special Report on China and the Stars of China awards honoring China's best banks and companies.

Awards methodology:

Global Finance's correspondents and editors base selections on reporting and analysis. Factors considered range from the quantitatively objective to the informed subjective. Among nominally objective criteria considered are such factors as growth in operations, position on league tables, profitability, geographic reach, strategic relationships, new business development and innovation in products. Subjective opinions include the opinions of analysts, ratings agencies, consultants, customers and others involved in the industry. The mix of these factors yields winners that may not be the largest, the oldest or the most diversified in a given market or sector, but rather the best – the provider with which most companies around the world are most likely to want to do business.
